

SAYS ALMS HOUSE BIRTHDAY EVENT IS A FIRE-TRAP WAS BIG SUCCESS

Representative of Bureau of Public Welfare Investigates Fire Hazards of Institution.

HAS NO FIRE PROTECTION

Finds No Hand Fire Extinguishers, Nor Water Buckets, and Inefficient Water Supply to Fight Fire.

"I found the fourteen buildings of the Adams County Alms House to be of very old construction, inflammable from cellar to garret, almost entirely without fire protection, and veritable fire traps for the seventy five inmates there," said Edward Wilson, field representative of the Department of Public Welfare, this afternoon following a thorough inspection of the buildings of the Adams county institution.

Mr. Wilson's visit of inspection came as the result of a request by a number of citizens of Gettysburg and Adams county, who desired to know the conditions that obtained here and the likelihood of a repetition of the disaster several days ago at the New York City institution for the insane, where 28 persons were burned to death.

Following the receipt of a number of requests by Fire Chief James B. Aumen, the Department of Public Welfare was asked to send a representative here to go over the situation and make such recommendations as seemed required.

Place Is A Fire-Trap

Mr. Wilson declares that after going over the ground thoroughly, he finds the buildings almost entirely without fire protection, and feels that the inmates would be at the mercy of the flames were a blaze to start there. "The place is a veritable fire-trap," he repeated.

Without hand fire extinguishers of any kind, water buckets absolutely non-existent, and only four 50-foot lengths of old hose on the grounds, he declares the institution to be sadly in need of equipment.

"I find other things in good shape, and above criticism," Mr. Wilson hastened to say. "The buildings are clean, the inmates well-fed, and happy. They have no complaints to make, and it is evident that the steward, Harry Stauffer, is doing the best he can with the equipment he is given."

"In a general way, the recommendations which I shall make to the Bureau will be that a night watchman be employed at the institution. There are entirely too many buildings and furnace fires at the plant for the institution to be left entirely to chance throughout the night," continued Mr. Wilson.

"Only two of the buildings offer any means for escape for those who are housed in the buildings in the case of a fire starting in the lower part. These two have outside stairways, which slightly reduce the fire hazard."

Insufficient Water

"Hand fire extinguishers and water buckets are essential. There should be water connections and a coil of

Principles of Washington Extolled By Speakers At Public Mass Meeting.

TWO PATRIOTIC SPEECHES

Dr. C. F. Sanders Was Main Orator of Evening. Rev. N. L. Horn Spoke Briefly.

Sterling qualities of George Washington—the man and the statesman,—were extolled, and proven greatness of America—the country and the government,—were lauded by Dr. Charles F. Sanders, College faculty, who delivered a heart-stirring address at the public mass meeting held in the court house, Thursday evening, in commemorating the birthday of the "father of our country" almost two hundred years ago.

"Because of the proven principles for which Washington stood," the speaker declared, "and because he has left his imprint on American government, the whole world now turns to this country for inspiration. America stands for one thing above all others; that principle is one of universalized democracy."

"As a man Washington stood well over six feet. He was born to the military and had none of the frivolous qualities that usually cover superficiality of character. He was a man of courage, and one who met a responsibility squarely and unflinchingly. Having assumed responsibility for a cause, such as breaking the ties with Great Britain in continental times, his first thought was to bring the issue to a

COLONIAL TEA WAS CHARMING AFFAIR

Sixteenth Annual Washington's Birthday Event Was Well Attended.

In a flawless colonial setting, the sixteenth annual Washington's birthday tea was held Thursday evening at the Battlefield Hotel by the Gettysburg Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Those who attended the affair were greeted upon entering the lobby of the hotel by a group of hostesses and a receiving committee, all of whom wore dresses representative of the continental period in American history. The colonial effect was heightened by the fact that the hostesses and receiving committee members had their hair powdered as was the custom in Washington's time.

One hundred and sixty five persons were served at the affair, and $100.26 was cleared. The menu consisted of creamed chicken patties, potatoes au gratin, peas, mixed pickles, olives, cheese, cherry pie, ice cream, cake and coffee. Robert Miller furnished music on the piano during the evening.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. W. A. Granville, Mrs. J. Paxton Bigham and Mrs. J. L. Butt; the receiving committee was Mrs. W. H. O'Neal, Miss Mary McConaughy, Mrs. S. S. MAY JOIN ASSOCIATION

Firemen Here May Be Taken Into State Firemen's Group.

An interesting feature of the meeting in Steelton was the protest against the abolishment of the State bureau fire protection and against the proposed abolishment of the two per cent premium tax levied by the State on foreign fire insurance companies.

BANKS AFTER BAD CHECK PASSERS

Are Also Urged in Harrisburg Meeting to Prosecute Fraudulent Stock Salesmen.

HEAR OF NEW BANK CODE

Sixteen Banks of Adams County Members of Group Five, Pennsylvania Bankers' Association Meeting.

Nearly a score of bankers who went from Gettysburg with bankers from other parts of the county to the Washington's birthday meeting of Group 5, Pennsylvania Bankers' Association, held in Harrisburg Thursday, were told of the part played by banking institutions in the apprehension of fraudulent stock salesmen and the protection of other institutions and investors, in a talk by D. J. Leopold, executive chairman of Group 5.

The greater part of the time of the meeting was taken up in consideration of the new banking code for Pennsylvania, now being proposed in the Legislature. John G. Reading, president of the Susquehanna Trust Company, Williamsport, delivered the address on the subject, which is of vital interest to and will affect all State banks, trust companies, private banks and all national banks in the State which exercise fiduciary powers under the authority of the Federal Reserve Board of Washington.

One of the emphatic points of the meeting was a recommendation that all of the county banks go as far as possible in the prosecution of fraudulent stock salesmen, and fraudulent check-passers, not only for the purpose of protecting themselves, but to protect their depositors and clients.

After dinner speakers were E. J. Cattell, of Philadelphia, the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, of Brooklyn, New York, the latter on the subject of "The World Situation and American Progress." Music during the dinner was furnished by the Penn-Harris Quartet.

Sixteen banks in Adams county are members of the Group 5 Association, which composes banks in the following counties: Adams, Cumberland, Dauphin, Franklin, Fulton, Juniata, Lancaster, Lebanon, Mifflin, Perry and York, giving a total of 235 member banks in these counties. More than 500 bankers are estimated to have attended the meeting Thursday.

STOCK REPORT

(By Associated Press) Higher Rediscount Rate Regarded As A Bull Factor in Some Quarters.

New York, Feb. 23.—While the raising of the rediscount rate by the Federal Reserve Bank was regarded in some quarters as a warning to the speculative fraternity, several expert stock market observers, nevertheless, constituted it as a bull factor. Pool operations which were suspended in a number of shares at the start of the session in order to determine how much selling pressure would develop as a result of the higher rediscount rate were resumed before midday and prices again tended upward. Losses of 1 to 2 points were quite common both in rails and in industrials before the reaction was checked. A few issues displayed conspicuous strength. Call money opened at 5/4 per cent.

ALLIES TO SET UP A CIVIL REGIME

France Will Replace Present German Administration Over Ruhr Railroads.

MEET TRAFFIC PROBLEMS

General Payot Claims Transport Difficulties Have Been Overcome. France Winning.

Paris, Feb. 23.—A decision to replace the German railroad administration in the Ruhr with an Allied civil administration was officially announced Thursday night as one result of the conference here between Premier Theunis of Belgium and Premier Poincaré.

Representatives of the French ministry of public works and the State railroads left for Duesseldorf Thursday to confer with Generals Degoutte and Payot and Paul Tirard, deputy of the International Rhineland Commission.

The civil administration will hold the same position, as regards its relations with the military occupational authorities, as did the German administration. The director of the railroads will be French, with two deputies, one French and the other Belgian.

Traffic Difficulties Overcome

London, Feb. 23.—"France's transport and communication difficulties in the Ruhr now have been overcome," the Evening news Thursday quoted General Payot of the French General Staff as declaring in an interview Wednesday at his headquarters. "We are in a position to carry all the coal, coke and other materials upon which future events may enable us to lay hands. If there were coal enough ready for loading we could carry forward, indeed, nearly 100 coal trains daily, beginning with next week."

"We have not the slightest difficulty in moving our troops and supplies," continued the general, "and we are assured of the continuance without hindrance of international train service. We shall increase the number of civilian trains which we are running despite the German strikes and despite the threats and warnings of the Nationalist agents and the ever-increasing numbers of German civilians using these services."

"We have reopened the Rhine to navigation and resumed the Rhine coal traffic. We have scores of big barges at our disposal, and very soon the 38 tugs now operating will be reinforced by many others."

Regarding the general situation outside my own province," concluded the general, "I can only tell you France is winning in the Ruhr and that in the end we shall oblige the German Government to yield to reason and inexorable justice."

SEEK A BARBER AND $443,000

Financier Wrecked Two Banks And Life Insurance Company.

Buffalo, Feb. 23.—Detectives and bank examiners trying to learn the details of the frenzied finance of Joseph B. Marcano, whose dealings are alleged to have wrecked the Niagara Life Insurance Company and caused the suspension of two banks, Thursday were unable to account definitely for $443,000 in cash, stocks and bonds that passed through the hands of the former Chicago barber and his associates. Other transactions under investigation may carry the total above $500,000.

The total is made up of these items: $100,000 drawn from the treasury of the Niagara Life Insurance Company just after it passed into control of the State Insurance Department; $213,000 in securities of the First National Bank of Warren, Mass.; $130,000 drawn from the Mechanics' and Merchants' Bank in Philadelphia.

It was definitely established Thursday that on February 7 Marcano ordered his brokers here to sell stocks and bonds of a face value of $149,000. The bonds were of a high class and easily marketed, and Marcano received $146,000 in cash the next day, representing the sale price of the securities less commissions. The stocks and bonds are being traced for comparison with the securities missing from the strong box of the Warren bank.

Barber Was Good Talker

Chicago, Feb. 23.—Only scattering scraps of the life history of Taylor and Marcano were available here. Marcano was said to have come from Milan, Italy, and to have been a barber at one time in a South Halsted street shop in Chicago.

The immigrant barbers is said to have soon blossomed into a tonsorial genius, who indulged in verbal financial flights as he honed and stropped and shaved.

ARGUMENT BEGUN IN POLLARD CASE

Court Adjourned After Each Side Opened Its Rebuttals.

JUDGE INSTRUCTS JURORS

Stresses Fact That Defendant Is Not Being Tried For Immorality, But For Murder of Stenographer.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 23.—Arguments in the trial of Thomas Pollard, charged with the murder of Mrs. Thelma Richardson, his former stenographer, were begun Wednesday afternoon and were not finished when the court adjourned at 6 o'clock until 10 a. m. today, when Harry U. Smith will close for the defense and Richard E. Byrd for the State. No time limit has been set for the arguments.

Rebuttal Witnesses Called

Several rebuttal witnesses for each side were called Thursday. Dr. Whitefield, the coroner, testified that the pistol that fired the shot which caused the death of the woman was within six or eight inches of her left breast, and that the bullet passed through her lung. Other witnesses who were called at the request of jurors testified, but no point of consequence was developed or refuted entirely.

The instructions were read to the jury by Judge Richardson, who stressed the point that Pollard was not on trial for immorality. He defined the law in its application to the verdict and the duty of the jury to determine the value of the evidence, the credibility of the witnesses and their interest in, or relationship to the parties.

David E. Satterfield, for the prosecution, opened the arguments arraigning Pollard for deserting his wife and consorting with Mrs. Richardson, thus wrecking both homes.

Hiram M. Smith, for the defense, followed. He emphasized the fact that Pollard's admitted immorality was not the issue before the jury. He expressed disbelief that Mosby West, who accompanied Mrs. Richardson to the scene of her death, had told all he knew, and commented severely on Herbert Richardson, the prosecution's "the gallant soldier," who for 18 months had been paying attention to a young woman and who denied it on the stand, the young woman being called to establish this, though she had broken with him last October.

L. R. STEEL CLOSING

Will Close in Hanover Following Baltimore Procedure.

The Hanover office of the L. R. Steel company may be closed before long, it was learned Thursday. A report following the announcement from Baltimore that the offices of the Steel company there would be closed Saturday was to the effect that the Hanover office would be abandoned on April 1. The Hanover manager, however, said Thursday afternoon that the report that the Hanover office would be closed was correct, but stated that he did not yet know when the closing would take place.

Announcement was made Thursday by W. C. Yates, manager of the L. R. Steel company interest in York, that the offices maintained by that concern there are to be closed.

Mr. Yates has made a statement that the report that the Steel interests are tottering financially is without foundation and that the affairs of the concern are being conducted on a sound basis. He gives as a reason for the closing of the office the fact that following the resignation of L. R. Steel from the organization the board of control, which was placed in control of affairs, has decided to expand the organization on a more conservative plan.

KILLED IN WRECK

Messenger Crushed In Accident At Mechanicsburg.

Spared the torture of being scalded by live steam from wrecked pipes, the dead body of Charles Fisher, Philadelphia, a Baldwin Locomotive Works messenger, working out of the Eddystone erection shops stood for several hours in the cab of a Western Maryland engine after he was crushed to death Thursday when the engine was sideswiped on a Pennsylvania railroad siding at Mechanicsburg.

Two firemen, George Singer and W. R. Fields, both of Chambersburg, were injured by the impact. According to the Cumberland Valley Division, Chief Dispatcher at Chambersburg, the accident happened at 10:55 o'clock after one of the two engines, Nos. 841 and 842, developed a burning journal, and was being switched onto a siding.

MORE ARRESTS IN COUNTERFEIT BAND

1000 Caught In America, Egypt, England, Germany And Other Countries.

New York, Feb. 23.—International ramifications of the huge counterfeiting system which Secret Service operatives bared Wednesday were indicated Thursday when Joseph A. Palma, Secret Service agent in charge of the investigation, announced that 15 arrests have been made abroad.

Persons have been arrested in Egypt, Liverpool, England; Hamburg, Germany; Havana, Cuba; Austria, the Bahamas, Naples, Italy, and France as a result of clues given the police of the foreign countries by Secret Service agents here, Mr. Palma said.

In Naples two men and a woman were arrested with $50,000 in spurious money in their possession, but one of them escaped, Mr. Palma said. The dozen others taken into custody, he said, were all traced as a result of the investigation which culminated in the arrest here of 28 persons Tuesday night.

The leaders of the band operating in the United States are under arrest, Mr. Palma said, but a number of passers of bogus money are being sought. Already, he added, about 1000 passers have been captured in American cities and have been tried on such charges.

The passers who are caught now, Mr. Palma explained, will be considered accessories after the fact and will be included in the blanket indictment covering the leaders of the gang and will thus be liable to a maximum penalty of 45 years' imprisonment.

COLONEL GREEN A RADIO FAN

Son of Hetty Has an Elaborate Apparatus at His Home in New Bedford.

Round Hills, the country home of Col. Edward H. R. Green, son of the late Hetty Green, at New Bedford, Mass., sounds like a haunted estate since its owner has been bitten by the radio bug, says the New York World.

In the sun room of the house stock quotations, weather reports, music and speeches flow all day from the receiving station there. In the bathhouse come the booming tones of the amplifier.

That's all there is now, but Colonel Green has not done yet. Within a few days his new six-room studio, housing the most complete broadcasting station in the country, will be finished.

Colonel Green is not enjoying his radio pleasures alone. The first try-out of his truck was made a few days ago, and it went rolling about the neighborhood reeling off concerts and talk from Newark and Schenectady for the delighted farmers.

But the amplifier is the colonel's pet. This is just such a machine as was used to make President Harding's inaugural address audible to the 125,000 gathered about the capitol. At Round Hills the sound will be plainly heard over a radius of five miles.

"Anybody who has a set of two good ears has all the required receiving apparatus," the colonel says. "I'm so interested in this thing that I haven't time for anything else. I'm like a child with a new toy, who can't be induced to put it down."

Horrible Example

The woman always enjoyed the auto trip better when her friend's seven-year-old nephew sat at her side. While mother marketed one day the lad saw a dwarf, a man whose body was perfectly developed, but placed on grotesquely short legs that gave him the stature of a young child. The boy observed him solemnly for a minute and then said: "Gracious, how many cigarettes he must have smoked when he was a little boy."—Chicago Journal.

BIRTHDAY EVENT WAS BIG SUCCESS

"Washington was thrifty and would have succeeded in business, but above all, he was a statesman. Not a politician as many so-called statesmen are today, but a man who saw opportunity to be of service to his countrymen."

"In a government at the head of which was a royal governor, such as obtained in this country before the break with England, Washington saw a subjugated nation. It was not accident, therefore, that took him to the head of the Continental army, and later to the presidency. It was his love for his countrymen that stirred all his activities on their behalf, thinking nothing of his own interests meanwhile."

In the latter part of his speech, Dr. Sanders dwelt at length upon the principles for which America has stood and which, as he said, have turned the eyes of the world upon her.

After drawing a word picture of America as it might be today if the Revolutionary War had not been fought, Dr. Sanders declared that Americans should be proud not only of its wonderful resources, but of the principles for which it has stood since becoming free of Great Britain.

In closing, Dr. Sanders said the Revolutionary War was fought to free this country from England; the Civil War was fought to free the slaves, and the World War was fought to free the world from the prospects of another war. "However," he continued, "if the World War did not accomplish its purpose, America stands ready to fight another war for the abolition forever of wars."

Rev. N. L. Horn, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, who delivered a short, but emphatic, address, filled with patriotic fervor, was another speaker at the mass meeting. "America," he exhorted, "needs more than anything else, patriots like Washington, men, who would give their all for their countrymen. The essential qualities of Washington should be imitated by every one of us."

Held under the joint auspices of the Patriotic Order Sons of America and the Independent Order of Americans, the mass meeting, attended by almost 500 persons, was a success from start to finish. Older residents of town said it recalled former Washington's birthday celebrations held years ago. The interior of the court room was decorated with American flags which gave a patriotic touch to the patriotic program presented.

Rev. Earl J. Bowman, pastor of St. James Lutheran church, presided, in the absence of the Rev. Harry Daniels, of the Methodist Episcopal church, on account of illness. Preceding the presentation of the program, an orchestra from the Methodist Episcopal church, under leadership of Edward Dougherty, played several selections. The invocation and benediction were pronounced by the Rev. E. H. Hummelbaugh, pastor of the United Brethren church.

The entertainment was opened with the singing by the audience of "America" under the direction of Miss Lucille Henry, director of musical instruction in the public schools. Other musical numbers on the program were two selections by a group of high school singers, Evelyn Thomas, Catherine Hartman, Jessica Weaver, Charles Rodgers, Jarvis Robinson, Paul Hewitt, and Clarence Steinhour; a duet, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Zinn, accompanied by Mrs. Carrie Pretz, and a solo by Miss Dorothy Crouse.

Readings were given by Miss Lily Dougherty, Miss Kathryn Hummelbaugh and Miss Catherine Musser. All numbers were encored.

The joint committee in charge of the affair consisted of Robert Geiselman, C. D. Stallsmith and John McDonnell, from the P. O. S. of A., and Harry Koch, Clayton Hoke and Arthur Baker, from the O. of I. A.

The occasion was observed in the schools of Gettysburg by means of flags, and singing of patriotic songs. No special addresses were made at the High School. At the Meade school, however, Dr. Frank Kramer, of Gettysburg College, gave a talk to the pupils of the seventh and eighth grades during the morning, following their singing in assembly. His subject was "The Life of Washington."

After lunch, the other grades at the Meade school met in assembly, and heard Dr. Kramer in an address on Washington, following which a salute to the flag was given.

SAYS ALMS HOUSE IS A FIRE-TRAP

hose on every floor of each building. "Any provisions for the use of water at the present time would be useless, however, for the water supply is absolutely inadequate," Mr. Wilson asserts.

"The water main from the Gettysburg reservoir ends at the Alms House. Consequently, when one fire plug is opened, there is no flow from any other plugs at that end of the line. It will be necessary that the mains be extended to form a loop around the buildings, and be supplied with a connection with the main supply at the other end.

Conditions Bad
"As the institution is at present, the hose on the grounds would not reach from the nearest fire plug to the farthest buildings, the water supply is inadequate for the use of the hose on buildings which can be reached, and there are no other means for fighting a fire. It would be hard to imagine how conditions, from the standpoint of fire protection, could be any worse," concluded Mr. Wilson.

RUTHLESS EFFICIENCY

Mussolini's Watchword Being Put Into Effect In Italy.

Rome, Feb. 23.—Italy's ponderous bureaucratic machine, the dismemberment of which has been the promise and aim of numerous Italian governments since the armistice, is finally, under the virile and strenuous administration of Premier Mussolini, about to crumble. His government has just put into effect, through the issuance of a royal decree, a scheme designed to give the maximum efficiency for the least cost to all the services of the state.

At one blow the new decree refiles all state employees over 65 years of age, and those who have served for a period of 40 years. All employees who, by reason of incapacity, are not able properly to perform the functions for which they are employed, are to be dispensed with. This will include those whose services are not deemed satisfactory by their superiors.

Those who, through their long service for the state, are entitled to draw pensions will be accorded that privilege under the new decree. They also will be allotted on retirement a sum equal to six months' pay. Those who have served less than 20 years will receive as many months' pay as years they have spent in the state service.

SKELETON 5,000 YEARS OLD

Valuable Find Uncovered On Coast of Sweden.

Stockholm, Feb. 23.—The well-preserved skeleton of a man who lived in the stone age, 5,000 years ago, has just been found on the west coast of Sweden by a commission of archaeologists which has been combing the countryside for ancient relics to be placed on exhibition at the exposition in Gothenburg this summer.

The Swedish experts, fifteen in number, have been at work for about seven years, and have succeeded in collecting 20,000 relics of antiquity. The results of their labor has been an accumulation of proofs that the North Sea coast of Sweden was inhabited as early as 3000 B. C.

The stone age skeleton, which is now being mounted in Gothenburg, was found during excavations at Kungsbacka, a few miles south of this city. The ancient site of Kungsbacka has been chosen by some critics as the probable seat of Beowulf, the hero of the oldest epic poem in English literature; but Beowulf was a newcomer compared with the stone age man, who lived about 4,000 years before him.

The relics now brought to light include flint tools and weapons, ornaments, etc. In one of the graves about 2,000 years old, were found the remains of a woman and her equipment, consisting of an amber necklace, weaver's reeds and distaff.

FINDS COIN WORTH $1,000

London, Feb. 23.—A Sheffield farmer, while digging in his fields recently, found a silver coin of antique origin, but in a splendid state of preservation. He came up to London, had it appraised, and found it to be worth 250 pounds sterling. The coin is a Charles I crown and was minted at the time when silver was very scarce.

CRISIS NEAR IN CHURCH AS CLIMAX TO DR. GRANT'S STORMY MINISTRY

THE REV. PERCY STICKNEY GRANT AND MRS. RITA H. deALBA deACOSTA LYDIG.

By Alexander Herman
NEA Service Staff Writer.
New York.—What is ahead in religion?

A militant ministry patterned after the spectacular and revolutionary leadership of Dr. Percy Stickney Grant?

Or must this meteor among preachers stand trial for heresy—after his declaration that Christ did not have the power of God?

These questions grow enormously in interest as the religious world waits to see whether Dr. Grant recants, resigns or is tried according to his Episcopal bishop's ultimatum.

Dr. Grant has held the center of the spotlight through a tempestuous career—fighting church doctrines, and fighting a personal fight to marry Mrs. Rita H. deAlba deAcosta Lydig, twice married and twice divorced. He is noted for radical sermons; and he is the author of poems and essays, of such books as "Socialism and Christianity," and "Fair Play for the Worker."

His notable book of poems, "A Fifth Avenue Parade and Other Poems," published last year by Harper & Bros., had this dedication: "To Rita H. deAlba deAcosta, an ambitious and stimulating intelligence."

gence gifted with a knowledge of the beautiful, a Tanagra figure come to life, a captivating companion."

The sequel to these chapters of his life remain to be written:

CHAPTER I

PERCY STICKNEY GRANT was 26 years old when he graduated in 1886 from the Episcopal Theological School at Boston, his home. Assigned to Fall River his ideas about running the church were somewhat different from those of the vestry. But his social service work attracted attention and he earned a call to the Church of the Ascension, New York. He came in 1893, but only on condition that pews be free and that the church be open every day—two revolutionary ideas at that time.

CHAPTER II

In New York Dr. Grant became known as a friend of the working man. In 1907 he organized a public forum in the church. By 1919 he had had clashes with conservatives in the vestry, who organized a committee to investigate his "teaching doctrine contrary to the doctrines of the church." There was talk of a heresy trial. Nothing came of it.

CHAPTER III

Storms multiplied. He compared the deportation of Russian anarchists ists' to the Pilgrims, their ship to the Mayflower. He attacked legislative plans to curb radicals. Bishop Thomas F. Gailor called him "a pampered pet of a group of rich men and women who poses as a friend of the poor." Grant shrugged his shoulders and went on.

CHAPTER IV

Talk came of putting him on trial in an ecclesiastical court for celebrating communion improperly, for permitting laymen to speak at religious services, and for performing the marriage of a guilty divorcee. But the case was dropped—with a rebuke and a warning for Dr. Grant.

Now came the time when he was to fight a personal fight—and lose.

CHAPTER V

Mrs. Rita H. deAlba deAcosta Lydig, called "America's most picturesque woman," long a friend of Dr. Grant, announced her engagement to him in 1921. She was 42, he was 61. She had been twice married and twice divorced; first W. E. D. Stokes, next Philip M. Lydig.

Under Episcopal Church rules Dr. Grant could not marry Mrs. Lydig without the bishop's permission. Bishop William T. Manning refused permission.

Incensed, Dr. Grant attacked the church's attitude on divorce. Result: Passage of a more vigorous amendment to the divorce canon.

CHAPTER VI

Publicity spotlights now bathed Dr. Grant in a new way. A baby girl was found on his doorstep, abandoned. He took it into his bachelor household, established a nursery, hired a nurse, and announced he would raise the waif. He baptized her "Faith Willard."

One of her four godmothers was Mrs. Lydig. Soon the baby became ill. She cried at night. The rector paced the floor with her in vain. The fading infant was taken to the country to save her life.

But she died in the Presbyterian Hospital. The body was buried in the graveyard of Dr. Grant's church.

CHAPTER VII

Sorrow stilled Dr. Grant's pulpit voice for a time. Soon he renewed his fight against the church's stand on marriage and divorce.

He said: "If marriage is founded on the affection of two persons for each other, as marriage in America is supposed to be, with the disappearance of such sentiment disappears the only ground for the marriage."

He had been advocating easy divorce since 1915.

CHAPTER VIII

With 1923 came the explosion. Dr. Grant said, in a sermon January 14, that Jesus Christ did not possess equal powers with God; that His miracles could be explained today by science; that consecration of

TWO TAVERNS

Two Taverns—Roy Hann, who was quarantined for scarlet fever, returned to the Littlestown High school on February 21.

The entertainment, which was to have been held in the Community Hall, February 16, by the pupils of the Two Taverns school, is postponed until February 23.

The play, "The Old New Hampshire Home," which the Mt. Joy Community Band will present at the Mt. Joy Community Hall on March 10, is getting along nicely and it is expected the Hall will be crowded that night.

Happiness In Sight For Winter Sufferers

Experience of Mrs. Warsing Indicates That Dr. Thacher's Prescription Is Ideal Winter Tonic.

The mass of evidence now pouring in from all sections, proving the excellence of Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup, is of exceptional interest at this time of year, and the report of the experience of Mrs. Mary A. Warsing, of New Canton, Va., indicates that this medicine is an ideal tonic for building up the system so as to avoid serious disease. Now, when uncertain and disagreeable weather is at hand, if people are in a run-down condition they are apt to fall an easy victim to the menace of colds, coughs, la grippe, pneumonia, pleurisy and many other serious diseases.

The body needs to be built up, strengthened and cleansed of impurities, and it is certain that if Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup will restore the broken-down health of anyone in the condition of Mrs. Warsing, as she so declares, there is probably nothing on earth superior to this medicine for fortifying the system against the ravages of winter.

In her statement Mrs. Warsing says: "I actually believe Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup saved my life. My health was all broken down so I hardly knew what was the matter with me, and it went so long I had begun to fear I was never going to be well woman again. I got so low, so tired, so nervous, so full of troubles, that I could hardly take any interest in what was going on around me." Picture to yourself Mrs. Warsing's family and friends urging her to try this or that medicine or treatment, but all to no purpose; nothing seeming to do her any good, finally concluding that maybe she was so far gone as to be beyond help, when somebody recommended Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup, saying they knew of many who had been helped by it.

So with little hope of its helping her she starts taking it, and in a little while begins to feel better. Then imagine her joy as her health steadily improved, until she was again completely well and happy. Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup is sold by leading druggists. It is being featured in Gettysburg by Peoples Drug Store. If the first bottle fails to benefit you the purchase price will be returned.

70,000 farmers guarantee this

The men of the Dairymen's League—seventy thousand farmers—with many hundred thousand cows, devote their lives to the production of pure milk and milk products.

They are as much a permanent part of American life as Pennsylvania or Florida is. When they make a dairy product and put their collective name on it, that product is good.

Not all the farmers in this territory are members of the Dairymen's League Co-operative Association, Inc., for, to be a member, a farmer must have the right kind of farm and clean, healthy cows subject to a regular rigid inspection and to unscheduled inspections by government officials. This means much to all who buy milk or milk products.

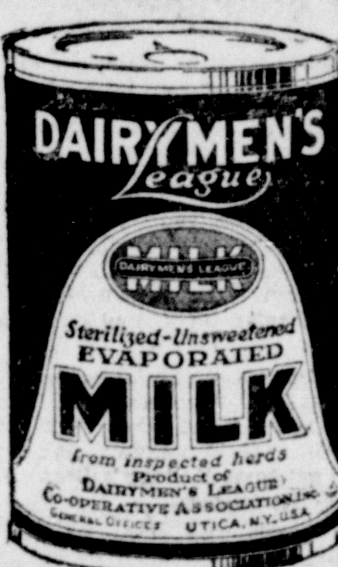

For these seventy thousand men are in business to stay. The farms must produce all they can. The cows must give milk. It is the privilege and the desire of the farmers to give the people the best dairy products that can be made.

The storekeeper who sells Dairymen's League Dairy Products can depend upon the products now and in the future.

Protests Against Stiff Swollen Tortured Joints

Rheumatic or Otherwise

Says: "When Joint-Ease Gets in—Joint Agony Gets Out."

It was a high-class pharmacist who saw prescription after prescription fail to help hundreds of his customers to get rid of rheumatic swellings and stiff inflamed joints. And it was this same man who asserted that a remedy could and would be compounded that would make creaky, swollen, tormented joints work with just as much smoothness as they ever did.

Now this prescription, rightly named Joint-Ease, after being tested successfully on many obstinate cases, is offered through progressive pharmacists to the millions of people who suffer from ailing joints that need limbering up.

Swollen, twingy, inflamed, stiff, pain-tormented joints are usually caused by rheumatism, but whatever the cause Joint-Ease soaks right in, through skin and flesh and gets right to and corrects the trouble at its source.

Remember Joint-Ease is for ailments of the joints, whether in ankle, knee, hip, elbow, shoulder, spine or finger, and when you rub it on, you may expect speedy and gratifying results.

It is now on sale at Peoples Drug Store, and druggist everywhere for 60 cents a tube.

LITTLE THINGS

By MYRTA ALICE LITTLE

Before the big upheaval Betty Brown was contented as a pink-eyed rabbit in a pink cover patch. She helped her mother with the housework and wrote stories and sold them to the newspaper, which was printed in the city, ten miles away.

Betty's sweetheart, Tom Saunders, was a farmer. He lived in the big, two and one-half-story brick house on Big Hill. Wednesday and Saturday evenings he always called on Betty, and they usually went driving with the red-wheeled buggy and the black mare, and talked plans.

Tom's plans were perhaps about the new Holsteins, or the hay crop, the yield of corn or the new potato bins. Betty loved the smell of a farm, so she always listened with brown eyes wide open, lips parted and, maybe, a sturdy hand tucked into Tom's and one of her molasses cakes tucked into his mouth. That is, she always listened until the time of the big upheaval.

It was one evening the last week in August. The heat of the first part of the month had cooled down into a fall-like breezy time, with the chirp of crickets and the elderberries turning blue-black along the meadows. Tom had washed the wagon with especial care that night after supper and had put on a brand new shirt with a blue stripe in it that matched his eyes, and a new pair of khaki trousers. Tom had special plans for that night. But — so had Betty.

Tom started leading up to his plans first. The second crop was going to turn out fine. Doubt if they could get ten enough to harvest it. Milk checks a third more now than they were distributing for themselves, and Tom had been thinking—the brick house was big enough for two families—why couldn't he and Betty—not wait for spring, but be married along in September some time, take the little trip they'd planned.

Betty's mind being packed full of her own new, strange plans, she probably heard just two words of Tom's eager, shy planning—"married" and "together." They gave her her cue. She shook her curly head and plunged swiftly into her own tale. She held a closely-written letter into Tom's hands.

"It's an offer to write regular things for the newspaper. I got it yesterday," she said, before Tom had read a dozen words. "I want to see them this afternoon. My cousin, Nat, works there, you know, and he recommended me. They're going to let me write about big cities and touring cars and theaters. I've engaged my room. There'll be errand work around the office, I suppose, but I'm almost on the staff. Tom, and if I keep on I may be editor—some day—and—"

"And—our drives and plans?" stammered Tom.

"But this is big," said Betty. "The most wonderful chance."

"Our plans look pretty big to me, girl," said Tom.

"But, Tom, you ought to have some ambition for me. They told me over at the office I'm too smart a girl to be buried alive in a little country town, and just cook and sweep."

"Bought woodland joins our farm today," said Tom, quietly. "Decide ready tomorrow. Made enough of surplus to swing it. We can have a house of our own, you know, Betty, any time you say. Have a girl to help you; the work is too hard."

"Isn't the hardness of it. It's the smallness," said Betty Brown, quickly. "I'm not going to be buried alive, I tell you. I'm glad I woke up before it was too late."

So Betty went to live in the city in a tiny fourth floor room, tramped the narrow city sidewalks, breathed the stifling city smells, jostled crowds, and wrote three-line city tales. "Cover police court—10 a. m." "Cover girls' club," they told her at the newspaper office.

Betty got busy, busier than she'd ever been before—the hurried, city-kind of busy, and she got hotter through the Indian summer, firelier, crosser, so useless feeling that it hurt clear down to the toes of her fast-wearing-out shoes. She wanted a taste of home-made molasses cakes and honest-to-goodness vegetables so much she could not even touch the roast lamb that tasted like roast beef, pork and veal. She wanted one drive in the red-wheeled buggy, one sniff of something besides dirt and smoke and grease, one feel of air on the hilltops that used to get into her stories, and never did any more.

Tom's weekly letter finished her, and all it said was: "Working night and day. Hand short on the second crop."

Betty explained as well as she could to the editor, packed her trunk, fairly leaped on board the three o'clock train, walked clear to Tom's house from the depot, and marched into the barn. Tom was talking the new Jersey.

Betty Brown snifed the blessed, honest smells and scooped into Tom's arms. "I want to cook great, fat cakes and green leafy vegetables. I want to clean great big houses," she whispered. "I want lots of fresh air, and big fields. Tom, I want to be your extra hand. I'll take or mow—or anything. I can't be cooped up in a city and write about things. I'll write simple little stories with great hilltops in them. Tom—ashed, Tom Saunders, I never knew before—how big little things are!"

Near Whittingham, Vt., a dog bit off a deer's tail, proving men are not the only ones so busy they don't know which end to start first.
